Executive Secretary

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 1, 1982

Dear Admiral Inman:

I strongly agree that new and developing technologies applicable to space systems may offer significant increases in the military, economic, and political uses of space. Your February 4, 1982 letter suggesting we jointly sponsor a 2- to 3-day colloquium of the most knowledgeable persons is a good one. I would be most happy to join you, Dick DeLauer, and Hans Mark as cosponsors.

As you know, OSTP has an on-going space policy study; Dr. Vic Reis, Assistant Director, OSTP, chairs the working group and is, therefore, in an excellent position to contribute to your colloquium planning activities. He may be contacted at 395-7326.

Sincerely,

G. A. Keyworth
Science Advisor to the President
